

On Small Business

In the News Same-sex marriage Immigration Wendy Davis Paula Deen Aaron Hernandez

HURRY! LIMITED-TIME OFFER!

Get the Hopper[®] and iPad[®] 2

Offers An iPad 2 With The Hopper So You Can Watch All Your Live And Recorded TV Anywhere.

ONLY DISH

dish

LEARN MORE

CANNOT BE COMBINED WITH PROMOTIONAL PRICING. EVERYDAY PRICES FOR IPAD 2 START AT $49.99/MO. REQUIRES 24-MONTH COMMITMENT AND CREDIT QUALIFICATION. RESTRICTIONS APPLY.

Small businesses' world is getting smaller

CHRISTOF STACHE/AFP/GETTY IMAGES - President Obama this week announced that leaders from the United States and European Union will begin negotiating a new transatlantic trade partnership next month in Washington.

By J.D. Harrison, Published: June 20 | Updated: Friday, June 21, 5:00 AM E-mail the writer

Avram Saunders's company provides an unconventional service: shielding buildings from storm damage by creating a force field that diffuses electricity around any given facility.

His method has been called "voodoo" by some in the United States, but that hasn't fazed Saunders. Had U.S. firms not been skeptical, he might not have looked so hard for international clients, which now make up about two-thirds of his business.

Had the U.S. government not lent a hand, though, he might never have found them.

"We're a small company, so on our own, it would be physically and financially impossible to identify new markets in, say, Australia or Nigeria," said Saunders, chief executive of Lightning Eliminators and Consultants. "We have benefited a lot from services provided by Uncle Sam."

Headquartered in Boulder, Colo., with only 29 employees, the company sells to some of the largest manufacturing, data and oil-storage centers in 70 countries, earning Saunders an exporting award this month from the Department of Commerce.

His firm isn't the only one finding success abroad. More small businesses are selling products and services overseas, due in part to a renewed emphasis on exporting in

ADVERTISEMENT

Capgemini
CONSULTING. TECHNOLOGY. OUTSOURCING

People matter, results count.

See how we make it real ▶

ADVERTISEMENT

TODO TODAY:

- 1) START FINISH BUSINESS PLAN
- 2) RAISE $$$$

CLICK HERE TO DOWNLOAD THE ULTIMATE BUSINESS PLAN TEMPLATE

Make sure you're the first to know:

Economy & Business and Technology News Alerts

Sign up for both today

TRENDING ON social reader

Miley Cyrus Threatens Father: You Have "An Hour to Tell the T...

products and services overseas, due in part to a renewed emphasis on exporting in Washington.

Some 64 percent of small businesses have sold merchandise or services to customers abroad, up from 52 percent in 2010, according to a recent poll by the National Small Business Association, an advocacy and research group. Of those that have not sold abroad, the number considering exporting in the future has jumped even more markedly, up to 63 percent from 43 percent.

“Not only are small businesses seeing growing opportunities available to them via exporting, they increasingly view their goods and/or services as valuable in a global marketplace,” NSBA Chairman David Ickert said.

The rise in exporting comes as government leaders look for ways to make foreign markets more accessible to U.S. businesses.

During his State of the Union address in 2010, President Obama announced a new government-wide effort called the National Export Initiative, aiming to double the country’s sales abroad to $2 trillion by 2015. U.S. firms are on pace to meet that goal, hitting a record $555 billion in exports in the first quarter.

Policymakers have taken steps to ensure that even the smallest firms have exporting opportunities. Those steps include the State Trade and Export Promotion grant program, approved as part of the Small Business Jobs Act.

Saunders says the grants helped fund recent trips to foreign countries in search of new customers and partnerships.

His company also has relied on the Export-Import Bank, which provides credit insurance and loan guarantees to foreign buyers of American-made goods. Congress reauthorized the program a year ago, and in the process, lawmakers upped its lending authority from $100 billion to $140 billion through 2014.

Saunders says the ranks of small exporters would be larger, and the economy stronger, if policymakers eliminated lingering regulatory barriers.

“Here we are, the most innovative country in the world, and yet there are other countries that have twice as many free-trade agreements. We get so caught up in the politics, business gets lost in the shuffle,” he said.

Follow On Small Business and J.D. Harrison.

Reprints

0 Comments Discussion Policy | FAQ | About Discussions | About Badges

No comments are available at the moment. Leave a comment

More from The Washington Post

- Love at first sight may have a biological basis
- Small business groups ‘cautiously optimistic’ about economic recovery
- Parents of W.Va. teen slain last July cancel protest after being told they can see body
- China TV shows men catching 2-year-old falling from 5th-story window; girl has just scrapes
- U.S. probing contractor that vetted NSA leaker

Sponsored Headlines what's this

- Paula Deen Stands Up "Today" Interview Yahoo!
- 11 Public Universities with the Worst Graduation Rates The Fiscal Times
- 15 Things You Should Never Do at Your Desk Salary.com
- 4 Surgeries to Avoid AARP.org
- The Secret to a Happier, More Productive Workforce? Job Satisfaction Surveys. SurveyMonkey

Top Business Stories

Most Popular Videos

Paula Deen: I Have a Black Friend and He's "Black as a Board"...

Dr. Ruth says some frank things about aging and sex

Personal Post

Top recommendations for you

1 h BUSINESS
Case in Point: Deciding what had to be done to save a Chinese factory

4 h BUSINESS
Workbook: Last scramble in Senate for immigration reform

Start your Personal Post with Business to see everything you love on one page »

More headlines for you >

ADVERTISEMENT

The Post Most: Business i

Most Popular

- The Supreme Court struck down DOMA. What does that mean?
- Meet Wendy Davis, champion filibusterer.
- Ed Snowden wanted leakers shot.
- The basics of the Texas filibuster.
- Wait, how did Texas pause Wendy Davis' filibuster?

+ Top Videos

+ Top Galleries

World Markets from Bloomberg

Americas	Asia	Europe	Middle East
Index	Status	Last	Today's Change
DJ IND. AVG	closed	14,910.14	149.83 1.02%
S&P 500 INDEX (CME)	closed	1,588.03	14.94 0.95%
NASDAQ COMP	closed	3,376.22	28.34 0.85%

Other Market Data from Bloomberg

Commodities	Currencies	Bonds
Future / Expiration	USD / Unit	Today's Chg
Light Sweet Crude Aug13	95.49 USD/Bbl.	↑ 0.18%
Natural Gas Jul13	3.75 USD/MMBtu	↑ 2.23%
Gold Aug13	1,223.90 USD/T Oz.	↓ 4.02%
Corn Dec13	544.00 USD/Bu.	↓ 0.09%
Soybeans Nov13	1,276.00 USD/Bu.	↓ 0.20%

Key Rates from Bloomberg

Local Rates	National Rates
	Avg Rate DC 1 Wk Prior
$10K Money Market Account	0.43% 0.43%
$30K Home Equity Loan	5.99% 5.93%
1 Year CD	0.51% 0.49%
15Yr Fixed Mortgage	3.62% 3.15%
30Yr Fixed Mortgage	4.72% 4.02%