

Leverage the technology you need

Your enterprise should be empowered by technology as unique as it is, not hampered by "out of the box" solutions that are built to average needs and deliver mediocre results.

Custom software allows you to enjoy precisely the solution you need. With successful business-centric software, it's not about how cool or how hot—it's about how comfortable your customers and employees are using the system. It's their daily transactions that build your enterprise dollar by dollar, leveraging the speed, scale and scope of stable enterprise software.

Levia understands that to invest in custom software, you need to know that you're getting accuracy, accountability, and abundant profitability with every project. We know how to help you determine a realistic return on your investment in custom software, fully realize the value of the custom intellectual property we create for you, and ultimately streamline your business with precisely the right solution.

Empower your business with powerful software

Levia's approach to enterprise software development has taken a number of businesses to the next level, helping them elevate profits with process enhancements.

For Georgia Department of Transportation, the management of $41 million in annual road contracts—encompassing training 800 vendors, ramping up 2000 users, and coordinating 22 state offices—was integrated for the first time by the Consultant Management Information System (CMIS), a high profile project successfully brought to market by the Levia team.

For natural gas company Southern Cross, a new Levia system built in just 8 weeks was deployed to 275 mobile phone users who log residential natural gas consumption by cell phone nationwide—resulting in a project with 250% ROI.

For InterContinental Hotels Group, Levia worked with one of their top marketing agencies to allow international Web site visitors across three continents to read information in their native languages effortlessly, regardless of which browser they use.

Our partnership with Levia allows our firm to focus on creating meaningful, immersive online experiences. Their back end blends seamlessly with ours to deliver brilliant applications that deliver lasting value to our Fortune 1000 clients.

The one thing we discovered was that Levia forced us to ask ourselves 'What is it that we really need, and what is extraneous information that just muddies the waters?' It really helped to focus us from an operational standpoint.
